Barre Team Took First and

of Double Bill

GALLAGHER WAS HIT
HARD IN OPENER

Laird Came Back and Held Barre Safely in Second

Gallagher, the star pitcher of the Montpelier team, received the hardest pounding that he has taken this season, when the Italians of Barre opened fire on his delivery Saturday afternoon in the first game of a double bill, slugging the ex-Vermont star to all corners of the lot, including a home run, three doubles and five singles, for a total of six runs, as against two for Montpelier. The second game ended at the close of the sixth inning, with the score 3 to 1 in favor of Montpelier.

Stuart and Joe Brickley led in the heavy stick work of the first game, Stuart getting two doubles out of four times at bat and Brickley rapping out a two-bagger and a home run, the latter hitting into the river by the way of the center field fence. Lavoie did some pretty work with the stick in this game, hitting out two singles, beating one infield roller by only a few inches at the first strike. He drew a pass and sacrificed a man to second on his other two trips to the plate.

Gaco, the sterling second baseman on the Barre team, came across with a pair of hard hit singles that aided in the run getting. Not only was Gallagher hit hard, but he seemed as unsteady as the four winds with men on the bags. In the second inning he tried to get Lavoie nervous by pitching slow and taking a long time to deliver the ball. When he had three balls and two strikes, Gallagher held the ball until the crowd commenced to get uneasy; then he threw to third to catch Gaco, who was on this bag, throwing the plate for the first run of the game. This seemed to upset Gallagher for a minute, as he served a wide one to Lavoie, giving him his base. Melanson, on the other hand, pitched a nice game after the second inning, allowing but five scattered hits, always pulling out of the tight holes which he worked into at different periods in the game.

In the first two innings, however, Melanson started off a little wild, hitting three men and passing one, but after the second frame Jeff seemed to shake the "jinx" that has been on his trail through out the season, striking out nine men and not issuing a pass from the second inning to the finish.

The fielding behind the pitchers was very good, considering the cold wave that hovered over the field all the afternoon. Gaco at second base pulled off some stellar performances, taking everything that he could get his hands on in the line of batted balls, while Stuart pulled a few bad ones out of the dirt around the initial sack.

Barre started off the scoring in the second inning, when Gaco singled, went to second on an error by Joe Laird, who muffed the throw, and continued to third on a wild pitch by Gallagher, coming home on Gallagher's wild peg to third. The Italians made three more runs in the fifth inning. Lavoie, the first man up in this stanza, hit one too hot for Gallagher to handle; Melanson laid down a pretty sacrifice hit, sending Lavoie to second, and a two-base blow by Stuart, combined with a singing four-base clout by Brickley, tallied the three runs.

In the sixth, they scored their last two runs. Tomasi, first up, singled to left, and then Lavoie knocked him home with a single. Lavoie proceeded to rattle Gallagher by stealing second, going to third on the next pitched ball, and, to make a perfect play, he stole home plate in a regular Ty Cobb style.

Montpelier's first run came in the fourth on an error, a two-base hit and a sacrifice fly. They scored their second run on an infield error and a long single into left field by Doyle, sending F. Laird across the rubber for their last run of the game. The score is as follows:

Notes of the Game.

Melanson outpitched Gallagher in every department of the game in the first contest. While it was no better than Jeff has been pitching right along this summer, he did not have his worst performance, the "jinx" on his trail.

Lavoie seemed to think there was no place like home, when he beat out his infield hit in the sixth inning of the first game. He ran all the way round on three pitched balls, reaching home in the wide spread arms of Catcher Phillips.

Granai seemed a little nervous against his old teammates, as the nearest to a hit that he received was an easy out to first base.

The Second Game.

The second game went only six innings, as Umpire Nicora declared it too dark to play ball, the score being at the time 3 to 1 in favor of Montpelier.

For some unknown reason, in the fifth inning, C. Bartlett's fly met a sunbeam and spiraled in the rays of the sun through Brown's hands. This error gave Montpelier a two-run lead and Manager Dobbs commenced to get busy thinking out some way in which to hold this lead. At the end of the first half of the following inning, a bright thought dawned upon his mind and he wanted to call the game at the end of that frame, on account of darkness, as the sun rays were not any closer to the ball park than the Benjamin farm buildings across the river. Dobbs asserted that it was so dark that his men could not see the ball, and that Fowle, the Barre catcher, admitted that it was hardly possible to see the horsehide.

This might all have been true, but many are inclined to think that it was not the darkness that affected the vision as much as the puffs of smoke that encircled the ball as it shot into the catcher's mitt from the wing of Tomasi. Tomasi pitched a wonderful game, having about everything on the ball that a pitcher needs to get by with, in this bush league. During the six sessions that he worked on the mound, five of the hostile batsmen failed to connect with his delivery, and the others lifted easy pop flies and grounders to his infielders. Only two safe raps were made off his pitching, one a single by Wakefield and the other a double by Stewart. Montpelier's new guardian of the middle station.

Joe Laird, the former Montpelier high school all-around athlete, performed on the hill for the capital city team in this game, and did some creditable work. While the Barre team gathered one more hit off his delivery than Tomasi allowed, Laird kept his three hits well scattered and struck out nine of the Italian batsmen.

It happened while the so-called darkness was hovering over the field of battle that Stuart and Gaco pulled off some fielding plays of the major league calibre. Stuart dug one out of the dirt from Tomasi, when J. Laird hit a slow roller to Tommy that he failed to handle until he hurried his throw to catch his man, but Gaco made the most sensational play of the game, when he ran into right field with his back to the ball, taking the ball with a one handed stab, then retiring his man at first base.

Barre's only run came in the first inning. After Stuart singled, Joe Brickley laid a pretty sacrifice bunt along the first base line, sending Stuart to second, Stuart crossing the plate a minute later on Davidson's stinging single to left center.

Montpelier scored once in the following frame, when Comoli fell as he went to catch Wakefield's long fly, dropping the ball and letting Wakefield reach first. Two wild pitches sent Wakefield across the rubber. Their runs in the fifth came after Tomasi passed Stewart and Gallagher and C. Bartlett's fly went through Brown's hands as described before. This ended the scoring, as Wakefield grounded out to Gaco, who made his sensational one handed stop. The score is as follows:

Notes of the Game.

Gaco's assist in the fifth inning of the second game was the best seen at the park this season.

Stuart proved to be the most dangerous with the stick, as he rapped out two doubles and a single out of eight times at bat, drawing one base on balls.

Joe Brickley is driving his hits to the same familiar spots that Joe Comoli used to in the old days.

Laird had a drop that fooled the Barre team throughout the contest.

DAN KEEFE BUMPED

HARD AND OFTEN

Burlington Secured Commanding Lead

and Had No Trouble in Beating

Barre 10 to 6.

Hard hitting on the part of Burlington, combined with several misuses by the Italians, enabled the Queen city team to defeat the Barre I. A. C. at Inter-city park yesterday afternoon by the score of 10 to 6. Danny Keefe, the former Goldard seminary star, pitched during the first 3½ innings, getting bumped to the extent of 8 hits for a total of 12 bases. With two on and one man out, Tomasi took the mound, pitching very creditable ball after his first inning.

Tommy, who worked six innings in Saturday's game, came back yesterday performing the iron man stunt, allowing but five hits in the 5½ innings that he officiated on the billock and passed but one man; although he was a little wild at times, as he heaved two wild pitches at critical stages of the game.

Sam Lavoie was the man who did the home run trick yesterday. It was just the groove that Sam has been waiting for all the season when he laid up against one of Norman's shoots, driving the ball over the center field fence and into the river within a few feet of the place where Brickley hit his drive Saturday. Aside from Lavoie's hit and a three base drive by Brickley there were no long drives. The feature of the fielding was a hard catch by Davidson, when he ran into short left, catching a pop fly and turning a somersault while in the act.

CHICK EVANS WON GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeated Gardner at Philadelphia, 4 Up and 3 to Play, Gardner Cracking Under the Strain.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—The greatest honors in the history of modern golf fell to Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater club of Chicago, when he defeated his fellow townsman, Robert A. Gardner of the Hinsdale club, 4 up and 3 to play, in the final round of the national amateur golf championship tournament at the Merion Cricket club course Saturday. Already the holder of the open championship, which he won at Minneapolis in June, he is the first player in either America or England to capture both national titles in the same year. Harold Hilton and John Ball, English amateurs, Francis Quimet and Jerome Travers won double honors, but at different times.

There was hardly a cloud in the sky and only a slight wind blowing when the players teed off for their 36-hole match at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and the conditions improved if anything during the afternoon round. There was a gallery of fully 3,000 along the course when the players drove off and it increased all day until there was close to 10,000 present for the finish on the 33rd green. The mother of the winner followed the golfing of her son throughout the entire 36-hole battle. She shared in the congratulations and attention that fell to the lot of her son when he was presented the gold championship medal by Frank L. Woodward, president of the United States Golf association, on the green where he clinched the match along with Gardner, Corkran and Guilford, who received runner-up and semi-finalist medals, respectively.

The match was a mixture of championship and mediocre golf, particularly in the forenoon round. After luncheon the pair played a game which was little short of perfect until Gardner cracked the strain after the 25th hole. Gardner reduced his opponent's lead to one hole at the 27th green and was playing grand golf, sinking a three-foot putt for a two after Evans had dropped his iron drive within five feet of the pin and won the hole, 2 to 3.

Going to the 28th Evans pulled his tee shot into a trap while Gardner was well down the fairway. Evans was forced to play his second short and his third was on the green but 25 yards from the pin. Gardner's second was on about three yards nearer the hole. Evans sank his long putt and Gardner's chance was lost. He managed to hold Evans to a half and also halved the 29th in par fours. It was his final flash, for he went to pieces on the next two holes and the match was no longer in doubt.

George A. Dodge, manager of Paragon park, said that the total loss would be between $50,000 and $75,000. He could not tell the cause of the fire, but from the fact that it started between the dance hall and the old powerhouse, and the additional fact that dancers occupied the former building until midnight, it is thought that a cigarette, carelessly thrown aside, may have caused the conflagration.

Four firemen were injured. Frank Templeton of engine 2, Hull, was overcome by smoke while working in the rear of a restaurant off the boulevard and was dragged out by comrades. He and three others similarly affected were taken to the Sturgis hospital at Allerton.

At the height of the fire, which was announced as under control at 2:15 a. m., at least 1,000 automobiles lined the boulevard, at a safe distance, and between 7,000 and 10,000 persons observed the progress of the flames.

The White Sox have struck another streak of luck, as they won seven straight games last week, thus putting them on almost an even footing with the Tigers. With Eddie Collins rounding into form and Shoeless Joe Jackson batting around 350 they look like a pretty formidable team.

It is rumored that there will be no city series in Chicago this fall. Although Pres. Comiskey and Manager Rowland will not discuss the matter in any way, because they think that it might put a jinx on their chances of winning the American league flag, it is learned from inside sources that Pres. Comiskey in particular is very much adverse to their playing the series. He claims that interest in this fall scrap has outlived its usefulness in the Windy city and that the fans would not turn out to watch them battle this fall. It is argued that this series breeds trouble between the players, as they are looking at their own averages in such a series more than they are through the season and they play more to beat each other than they do to win from their rivals.

A new physician in a small town got himself into a serious predicament soon after his arrival by his inability to remember names and people. One day, while making out a patient's receipt, his visitor's name completely escaped him. But not wishing to appear so forgetful and thinking to get a clue, he asked her whether she spelled her name with an "e" or an "i."

The lady blushed and replied: "Why, doctor, my name is Hill."
